

International voice outsourcing solutions

You need to concentrate on your service provider business

As the international voice business remains challenging with limited margins, you might find that it no longer fits your own business focus to keep this international part of your operations in-house. If you are going for IP only, you might need to rely on a highly experienced international voice carrier that can generate the enormous economies of scale that the international voice business requires.

ICSS offers individual international voice outsourcing solutions

- ICSS has the critical size (about 21 billion voice minutes transported in 2009) and proven, outstanding capability to design and implement tailored, scalable, high-quality international voice outsourcing solutions
- The international wholesale unit of Deutsche Telekom, for example, provides outsourced international voice services to Magyar Telekom
- We understand your long-term business requirements
